

My name is Irena Sendler. I was a Polish Catholic Social Worker in German-occupied
Warsaw during WWII.

In December 1942, the newly created Zegota
(the Council to Aid Jews) nominated me to head its children's section. Under the pretext of conducting
sanitary inspections
during a typhoid outbreak, I visited the Warsaw Ghetto and smuggled out Jewish babies and small
children in boxes,
suitcases, trolleys, and trams.

I used the old courthouse as one of the main routes for smuggling out children. I provided false documents and shelter in individual and group homes. I saved 2,500 Jewish children.

I am a human smuggler

Criminalizing smuggling cannot prevent the migration of those seeking safety and freedom.
Reject anti-smuggling legislation and scrap Bill C4.
